

ClassicFlame™ Introduces Expanded Entertainment Center Portfolio at Las Vegas Summer Market

Delray Beach, FL June 22, 2007 - Twin-Star International, Inc., a leading North-American manufacturer of ClassicFlame Electric Fireplaces announced today their plans to broadly expand their Entertainment Center portfolio. Building on the success of The Paramount, ClassicFlame will offer three new Entertainment Centers at the Las Vegas Furniture Market in July, 2007 – The Beverly, The Hollywood and The Pasadena.

ClassicFlame Entertainment Centers are cleverly designed to integrate several home entertainment pleasures in one place – the romance and ambiance of a ClassicFlame Electric Fireplace, a properly configured platform to showcase up to a 66” flat-panel TV, audio/video component shelving, plenty of media storage, and a wire management system.

According to International Data Center (IDC), the premier global provider of market intelligence to the IT sector, sales of plasma and LCD flat-screen TV’s are projected to triple in the next year. Consumers are finding that this new technology is simply not compatible with their existing family-room or living room furniture. Based on a Consumer Electronics Association survey, 44% of those purchasing a new flat-panel TV will also purchase new furniture to accommodate it.

“The landscape of living rooms and family rooms is changing as consumers join the flat panel revolution” said Mark Asofsky, Founder of Twin-Star International, Inc.. “With ClassicFlame Entertainment Centers, consumers can have all their home entertainment pleasures integrated in their choice of four beautifully designed, heirloom-quality pieces –The Beverly, The Hollywood, The Pasadena and The Paramount. And, they are perfect opportunity for Furniture Retailers to capitalize on the fast growing Home Theater Category”
